

Recent Deaths

Jeanette Rockwell

Jeanette Sledge (Mrs. David W.) Rockwell of Wellesley and Chatham, died January 24, in Wellesley, following a long illness. Holding degrees from the University of California, Berkeley, and Columbia University School of Library Science, she was library manager for McKinsey and Company, Inc., IBM Advanced Systems Development Division, Standard Vacuum Oil Company and the National Industrial Conference Board. A library planning consultant for special libraries, she was listed in "Who's Who in American Women."

Following the World War II attack on Pearl Harbor, she established a base library at Hickam Field in Honolulu. Subsequently, as Library Head, Western Pacific Base Command, she supervised the establishment of advanced field libraries on such islands as Iwo Jima and Guam, Saipan and others in the Marianas group. The United States Army issued her a commendation for her services. She is survived by her husband, David, a financial consultant. Memorial services were held Monday in Burt Chapel of the Village Church, Wellesley Square. The family suggests that expressions of sympathy may be in the form of contributions to Friends of the Library, Jeanette Sledge Rockwell Memorial Fund, Francis A. Courtney Library of Medicine, 10 Shattuck street, Boston 02115.

David Pulling Named Asst. Underwriting Consultant in Boston

David R. Pulling of 22 Ingersoll road was promoted to assistant underwriting consultant in the underwriting policy and research department of John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. In his new position in the life underwriting policy and education unit, Pulling will be involved in underwriting moderately large applications referred to his department because of unusual underwriting problems.

A graduate of Tufts University, Pulling joined the John Hancock's group department in 1959 as a medical review unit head for ordinary underwriting. He has held various positions of increasing responsibility, most recently serving as senior underwriter for ordinary policies.

Ham Operators Participate In Simulated Emergency Test

Few citizens realized it, but Wellesley was hit by a 1973-style hurricane last Saturday. Damage was so bad that all town emergency services were in operation.

The situation was imagined by Wellesley Amateur Radio Society members who conducted a simulated emergency test to practice radio communications and operating procedures. Wellesley amateurs were not alone; the test was happening throughout the country. For many years annual nationwide communications tests have been sponsored by the American Radio Relay League, Newington, Conn. The Wellesley Amateur Radio Society is a member of this League. The Society is also affiliated with Wellesley Civil Defense. Wellesley A.R.S. members operate the Wellesley Civil Defense Communications System.

Under the direction of Richard Jansson, WA1QLL, 6 Pine street, 14 amateur radio operators met at 9 a.m. Sunday morning at the Society's headquarters, 210 Washington street, to begin the emergency exercise. Radio communications were immediately established with other amateurs located in other homes, the Fire Station, the Newton-Wellesley Hospital, and the Wellesley Red Cross.

From the Society's Headquarters, three mobile radio stations in cars moved from one location to another to report on 15 emergency situations requiring attention.

By 11 a.m. the simulated hurricane had reached full fury. Several areas requested balance and fire department services. Flooding occurred on Routes 9 and 16, Emerson road, Overbrook drive, and Cliff road. Radio communications helped arrange for several casualties to be taken to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. Thank's to the Wellesley amateur radio operators the situation seemed well under control.

The simulated emergency test ended about 1 p.m. with more than 30 messages being passed back and forth. The hurricane was now causing havoc along the Maine coast. The operation had been a huge success.

Fire Chief William E. Donahue, also Wellesley Civil Defense Director, has paid high tribute to his group of amateur radio operators. He has said, "no one wants the real thing, but unfortunately natural disasters do happen. The Wellesley amateurs

St. Andrew's Women Luncheon Meeting Set for February 4

Dr. Joseph Jankowski, a vestry person for stewardship at St. Andrew's and the Rector, Dr. James R. MacColl III, will discuss the interface between religion and psychiatry at the February 4 luncheon meeting of the women of St. Andrew's, 12:30 p.m.

Dr. Jankowski is presently the director of Ambulatory Services and Community Child Psychiatry at Tufts New England Medical Center Hospital. He is also assistant professor of Psychiatry and Pediatrics at Tufts University School of Medicine.

Dr. MacColl has had many years of experience in family counseling and community projects. He has worked closely with the business, educational, religious, health and social concerns of the entire community, with a special interest in psychiatry. He has served as the president of the Academy of Religion and Mental Health in New York City and president of the Marriage Council of Philadelphia.

He has also conducted seminars on the collaborative role of the physician and clergyman in the care of the sick.

Dr. MacColl was a consultant in 1968 at the First Latin American Conference on Religion and Mental Health, held in Buenos Aires, and a member of the National Technical Assistance Committee for the 1970 White House Conference on children and youth. In 1968 he published a volume of sermons and he is co-author with Kenneth Appel M.D. of a chapter in the recently published American Handbook of Psychiatry.

Mrs. William J. Turner Jr. president of the group has invited the public to this meeting, which will be held in the dining room. Luncheon reservations and requests for baby sitting must be made no later than Friday Jan. 31. Please call the church office 235-5005.

Volunteers Sought For Annual Clothing Exchange Sale

The Wellesley Cooperative Clothing Exchange will be holding its spring sale March 19 and 20 in the Amesbury High School at Babson College. Started in 1945, the Exchange is a non-profit community project that has become a Wellesley tradition. Its semi-annual sales are to have early shopping privileges. New volunteers are needed by committee chairman now staffing their departments. Anyone interested in signing up to help or to learn more about the Exchange may call Mrs. Gerlach, 235-6215, or Mrs. Murphy, 235-6217.

support for Civil Defense programs, and their enthusiasm for service to our community is something we should all cherish. The Wellesley Amateur Radio Society is doing a great job."
